Frequently Asked Questions:

What kinds of organizations does Chamandy Foundation partner with?

- Feel free to consult the ‘Granting History’ section of our website, for examples of organizations that we have granted to in the past, as well as the purpose and amounts of funding.

Am I allowed to submit an oral application?

- Yes, please get in touch with us at info@chamandyfoundation.org for additional information..

When can I expect to receive an update on my application?

- As a small team, we appreciate your patience while we carefully review all applications. We aim to update applicants on their status during the assessment phase, usually within 4–6 months after the call for proposals closes.

What should I expect from the call for proposals form?

- The call for proposals asks for simple information about your organization, as well as some specific information about the initiative you are seeking funding for. We need to know this information to evaluate your request effectively.
- For example, we'll need to know the amount you're requesting, when you'd like to receive the donation and the proposed duration of our agreement. It's important to tell us exactly what you need and what the donation will be used for.

How do I best answer the ‘Program Timeline’ and ‘Target Funding Date’ questions?

- In terms of a timeline, please include and describe a proposed date range, as well as any relevant information about what conditions shape your planned timeline (eg: connection to a major event, the start of the school year, hiring for a certain position, etc.)
- ‘Target Funding Date’ refers to your preferred start date for the funding agreement to begin, in relation to your initiative’s timeline. You may also indicate that your preferred start date is flexible.

How do we define ‘Initiative’, in the “About the Initiative” question?

- For this question, "initiative" refers to the specific project, program, or operational area for which your organization is seeking funding. This could mean a new or existing effort aimed at addressing a particular need, achieving a mission, or supporting core functions.

What does “primary population served” mean?

- This refers to the main group or demographic that a proposed project or organization aims to benefit or support. This could be defined by factors such as socioeconomic status (e.g., low-income families), specific needs (e.g., individuals experiencing homelessness, youth facing mental health challenges), gender and race (e.g. women & girls or black or racialized youth) and/or geographic location (e.g., urban or rural communities).
- Selecting only one primary population will not impact your evaluation negatively.
- In the case of multiple populations served, please indicate only the primary five groups in the drop-down box.

What does ‘primary issues addressed’ mean?

- This refers to the main issue that has been identified and is being addressed by the proposed project. (eg: environmental education)
- Of course, there will often be more than one issue (i.e. mental-health & addiction). Please select a maximum of three issues that apply.
- You will not be evaluated negatively if you select only one primary issue.

I am an organization based in BC and/or Ontario. Am I eligible to apply?

- While we recognize the valuable work being done in these provinces, the regions benefit from a larger pool of funding opportunities compared to other provinces. Our foundation aims to prioritize regions where access to funding is more limited.
- However, we do accept applications from organizations based in BC and Ontario, if their work has a national scope or reaches communities across Canada. Additionally, we welcome applications from Indigenous organizations, regardless of their location.

Do we accept applications from non-registered organizations, ie: organizations without charitable status?

- Yes, we do accept applications from these types of organizations, if they still fall within our general eligibility requirements (based in Canada, established for at least two years, etc.)

Once I’ve created an account and begun filling out the form on the online platform, do I need to finish it all at once?

- No. With our new online granting platform, you can start your application and return to it anytime during the Call for Proposals (CFP) window. Just be sure to select Save before closing your browser to avoid losing your work.
Once you submit your form, it will become locked and you will no longer be able to make changes. Please note that applications not submitted by November 19 at 11:59 p.m. will not be considered.
